What motivates a transplant recipient to get active following their surgery? Were they always fit and active? Had they longed to get back out running, walking or cycling? Perhaps they have recognized that their transplant is a chance to reset the clock and start again?

Whatever the motivation, the World Transplant Games is here to support you as an integral part of your transplant team to help you get fit and active with the right tools and advice.

A healthy lifestyle is important for everyone, but it's especially important after an organ transplant. Poor lifestyle habits can increase the risk of organ rejection.

We are proud to introduce a new initiative, Fit for Life!, proudly supported by Astellas, designed to help transplant recipients live full and active lives through ongoing physical activity and participation in organized sports.

Fit for Life will build safe social support structures around recipients, motivating them to exercise within their means, starting with some simple goals, such as walking around the block, and building towards more ambitious outcomes.

What is Fit for Life!

- The collation & funding of research to make a case for the delivery of consistent and up to date advice
- A website providing advice, tips and programs on physical activity, nutrition, diet and other lifestyle issues
- The appointment of Fit for Life Ambassadors to carry and promote this message worldwide
- Creation of worldwide events for transplant recipients, their families & the professional transplant community to take those first few simple steps and build towards being Fit for Life!
The Benefits

- Improved mental wellbeing derived from physical activity and sport in a team environment
- Reduced obesity amongst recipients
- Improved physical ability and muscle tone
- Overall improved health equals greater long-term management of a transplant
- Creation of a new worldwide communications channel to deliver other important health information

The need for organ donors constantly grows.

Transplant recipients who are leading healthy and active lifestyles are able to show the world what this “Gift of Life” has allowed them to achieve.

About the World Transplant Games Federation
The World Transplant Games Federation unites transplant recipients from across the world to promote the success of organ and tissue donation and life-saving transplantation. With more than 70 member countries, the WTGF stages the world’s largest awareness event for transplantation, the Summer World Games, to inspire the public to consider organ and tissue donation. The WTGF also inspires recipients to rehabilitate following their transplant and keep fit and healthy in their ongoing journey.
